Eastern Oysters in the Pacific.

An attempt to propagate blue points and other noted varieties of Eastern oysters on the Pacific coast is soon to be made by the United States fish commission. A car load of oysters from the East are to be planted in Willapa bay, Washington, just above the mouth of the Columbia river, fisheries.

ASTHMA, Distressing Cough. SORE JOINTS —AND— MUSCLES.

Despaired
OF RELIEF.
CURED BY
Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

"Some time since, I had a severe attack of asthma, accompanied with a distressing cough and a general soreness of the joints and muscles. I consulted physicians and tried various remedies, but without getting any relief, until I despaired of ever being well again.
Finally, I took Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and in a very short time, was entirely cured. I can, therefore, cordially and confidently commend this medicine to all."—J. ROSELLS, Victoria, Texas.

"My wife had a very troublesome cough. She used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and procured immediate relief."—

Germetuer Cures LaGrippe.

Mr. Andrew Keck, of Keck & Bacon, leading dry goods dealers of Evansville, Ind., writes: "I was taken with 'grip' and at the solicitation of a friend used Royal Germetuer and do not hesitate to say that it is a wonderful remedy. In two days I was able to make my spring trip to New York.
I was also troubled with night sweats and since using Germetuer have escaped that also. I find it a splendid appetizer and keep a bottle in my

STRUCK THE WRONG CROWD.

A Faker's Appetite Encourager Not Wanted by Hungry Strikers.

The dapper little man in the check suit, with a bulky cane and a large yellow valise, saw a good-sized crowd on the street corner and immediately dived into the center of it. He didn't take time to stop to find out what was the reason of the crowd's gathering, but began business at once. The thick cane was given a dexterous twist that developed it into a tripod and the large yellow valise was placed on top of it.

"Gentlemen," began the dapper man. The crowd concentrated its collective eyes on him. "I have here," continued the orator, with the easy confidence of a man whose life has been passed in public speaking, "I have here for sale at 25 cents a bottle Old Mother Sohno's Homemade Root Bitters. These bitters, gentlemen, are warranted to cure any case of loss of appetite that ever existed. Ten drops taken as a dose before meal time will make the most dyspeptic man want porterhouse steaks, fried chicken, ice cream, a whole half of a pie."

He said no more. The crowd of hungry strikers, who had been living for two weeks on half a meal every forty-eight hours, jumped on him, jammed his yellow valise, bottles and all, down over his head and chased him up the street at wondrous speed.

FEWER HOT BOXES NOW.

Improvements Have About Done Away
With This Railway Annoyance.

Those who have traveled much by rail are more or less acquainted with the hot box. A hot box, as it is commonly called, really means a hot journal bearing or a hot journal, or both. It arises sometimes from the use of poor material in the bearing, sometimes on account of imperfect casting, and sometimes from too great weight upon the bearing, producing friction and heat.

There are now far fewer hot boxes than formerly. Some of the heaviest cars are now carried upon six-wheeled trucks, thus distributing the weight of each end of the car upon six journal bearings instead of four, and reducing the danger of excessive friction. Better materials are used and the workmanship upon them is better, weights to be carried are calculated more nicely, and greater care is exercised in operation, so that the hot box is not what it once was. A man thoroughly familiar with railroading who made not long ago a trip of 10,000 miles which included points as far apart as the City of Mexico, San Francisco and Chicago, said that he did not encounter a hot box until he was within twenty miles of New York on his return.

Peter the Great.

A St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs that an Englishman who was passing lately through a small village in Russia, entered a peasant's cottage to ask for a cup of tea. Hanging on the wall, framed in a tea-tray, the edges of which were turned over the canvas, he noticed a portrait in oil of Peter the Great. Having bought it for half-a-crown, he showed it in St. Petersburg to the curators of the Hermitage gallery who, after consulting their catalogues, identified it pretty surely with the picture at Versailles; but considered that if they were by the same hand, or copied one from the other, the copy was at Versailles, and the original was this.
The portrait, if not the finest of any existing is inferior to none, and will probably be purchased eventually by the imperial family.

And her Monte Carlo.

Ostend has finally decided to permit gambling tables to be maintained at the Kursall, though the lessees are taxed heavily for the privilege. What with engagements to pay large specified sums to the hospitals and the town charities, the undertaking to pay half the town taxes and cost of keeping the establishment lighted and in repair, the rent will amount to at least $125,000 a year for a season which normally lasts six or seven weeks. The privilege is granted for nine years from 1895.

Women Mining for Silver.

Two women in Baker county, Oregon, own silver mines and are running them in person. They do not actually handle shovels and work the dirt, but they superintend the working of the property, and while they admit the business has rough sides for a woman, they are making money and propose to hold on.

A Woman's Odd Request.

It is stated by a newspaper correspondent from the other side that Lord Randolph Churchill has a large estate and fine country seat left him by an eccentric maiden lady, one Miss Charlotte Rose Raines, who had never even set eyes on him, but who enriched him because of her admiration for his genius and her sense of the high services he had rendered his country. The only other beneficiaries under her will were thirteen cats, who were to be maintained in comfort all their lives at the expense of her estate. Sixty dollars per cat was to be the annual allowance. Kittens which might appear upon the scene were not to be heirs-at-law.

Chess for Women.

Mrs. W. J. Baird, the famous chess-problem woman of London, recommends the game for women on the ground that it is a useful corrective to the tendency to jump to conclusions, which most of the sex have. "Besides," she says, "it is a home accomplishment; no woman is compelled to leave her own fireside for the sake of chess, and, lastly, it produces no flirting or general frivolity." Mrs. Baird is now able to turn out a chess problem in half an hour. Her first one, composed six years ago, took 100 hours to accomplish. Her work appears in the ablest London newspapers and in the chess magazines.

Ouida Has Become Poor.

Ouida is reported to be poor now, after a considerable career of extravagance. One who knows her says that "life without riches, a perfumed boudoir, priceless bits of china, and the rest will seem almost a desert to her," but for the present she is retrenching.
She has sold her Italian palace and fittings, and is living quietly. Part of her large earnings has been lost in reckless speculation.

Her Dainty Underwear.

Neglige gowns and ladies' under-garments of almost every description show the influence of expansion in fashion quite as much, in their way, as the outside things which are constantly in view; and all things considered, the effect is more charming, as the materials used are sheer and soft, and the trimmings of dainty lace and embrodery admit of any amount of fullness without ever being clumsy. Fine nainsooks, French batiste, and sheer

DAINTY UNDERWEAR.

lawn are the popular materials for underwear, and China silks are very little used, except for night gowns, which might be properly called wrappers, as they are elaborately trimmed and made to wear over a nainsook gown. They are sometimes made with a yoke of alternate rows of lace insertion and silk, both back and front; and again the back is tucked to the waist, where a short belt confines the fullness, and to this a ribbon is attached, which ties in front with long ends. A wide berth of lace insertion, silk and lace edging, goes over the shoulders. In pink, pale blue and white these gowns are tempting enough to make any woman forget all her resolutions of economy.

Buckles.

Stock buckles are the vogue this fall.
The jewellers' windows are filled with them, and a stock of velvet caught in front with a gold buckle is considered a present not to be despised. The buckles are dainty, delicate affairs.
Many of them are of gold and enamel combined. Heart shaped buckles and gold circles have taken the merry maids by storm.

The Japanese Empress' Gowns.

Only once a year, and then on the occasion of a religious festival, is the empress of Japan seen in native garments. As a rule, she affects the choicest creations of the Paris "man milliners."

Things Women Want to Know.

Velvet is the approved material for winter millinery.

Large smoked pearl buttons are seen on tailor made jackets.

Velvets, hand embroidered with beads, are used for mantles.

Plaid velvet and spangled satin ribbons are favorite trimmings for dresses.

The silk bodice veiled with chiffon has become the regimental for theater wear.

The ugly poke bonnet is occasionally seen in Paris. May it never venture over the sea.

Handsome bullion embroideries in Renaissance patterns laid over velvet forms the crown of many fancy bon-nets.

Flowers bloom in the midst of fur and velvet in winter hats, and the modest violet ranks first in fashion with as much assurance as if it were a novelty.
